1. On 17 March 1951, the Polish surveying ship ZODIAK was observed tied up to the eastern mole in Ustka harbor. It left the harbor on 19 March. On this latter date, a towboat was observed towing targets, but there was no evidence of any firing.* The harbor area is now separated from the surrounding area by a wooden fence.

25X1X ~~Comment:~~ It is possible that the targets have been used in firing practice by naval vessels at sea.
